

- 12 A glass bottle containing warm air is sealed with a screw cap and then cooled in cold water.

The contraction of the glass bottle can be ignored.

What remains the same during the cooling?

- A the air pressure inside the bottle
- B the energy of the air particles in the bottle
- C the force on the cap made by the air particles in the bottle
- D the volume of air in the bottle