

pictures of birds are known as the labelled data the model is trained based on the bird features new data (bird has been detected) model learns and compares bird features output of number of each type of bird is produced